Underline the simple past verbs in the text.

My best friend is Deb Evans. We met on an internet chat site in 2003. We both liked chatting about music and fashion, and then we discovered that we live only ten miles from each other. We talked online all the time, and one day we arranged to meet in a café. I felt really nervous, because I'm shy with new people, but we liked each other immediately. We are very similar. We both abroad when we were children and we both got parents who got divorced when we were young. We both have busy lives but we still talk everyday on the telephone and we see each other once a week. I think Deb's a fantastic person.
